Associate Professor and RBC Professor in Responsible Organizations |
John Molson School of Business of Concordia University

Claudine Mangen is Associate Professor and RBC Professor in Responsible Organizations at the John Molson School of Business of Concordia University. Her primary areas of research and teaching are corporate responsibility from the perspective of corporate disclosures and corporate governance. More specifically, her work focuses on how corporate disclosures are involved in corporate governance, and on how corporate governance and disclosures influence the various actors who relate to corporations. Her research has been published in academic journals including the Journal of Accounting Research, Human Relations, and Academy of Management Perspectives, and is funded by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada. Claudine Mangen discusses her research and corporate responsibility in general on her blog, www.claudinemangen.com. She received her Ph.D. in Business Administration from the University of Rochester (NY, US), and her Master's Degree in Finance as well as her Bachelor's Degree in Economics from the University of Lausanne (Switzerland).
